To Whom It May Concern:

Saito Label House has been using services of Maclean Computing for more then six years.

The relationship started when Saito went to the market to look for a partner who could provide a full range of IT services and selected Maclean Computing because of their ability to provide the total solution and their experience with managing third parties, giving Saito one contact for all IT needs. Since then Maclean Computing has proved to be a highly professional team able to meet our expectations in quality and cost effectiveness of delivered IT services.

The most recent project was replacement of our ageing file and print server. I worked closely with Maclean Computing team during the whole process and was pleased again with their professionalism and effectiveness. Everything from quotes to final implementation was organised properly and delivered on time. From start to finish the whole project went smoothly with close to zero interruption to Saito business.

We are looking forward to a long term business relationship with the team at Maclean Computing and I am happy to endorse the company as a competent, professional supplier of all IT requirements.
